The Program

Over the years the profiling of unknown offenders has become increasingly accepted as a valuable tool in criminal investigations, particularly those involving homicides. However, it is important to recognize that not all homicides will conform to the organized vs. disorganized crime scene patterns that have been developed for the victims of seemingly random homicides where victims are strangers. Offenders who abduct and kill children and those who kill elderly women, for example, fit different behavioral patterns than those who kill these more typical victims. The Advanced Criminal Investigative Analysis Course is designed to help you identify these differences between offenders.

This is a one-week (36 hour) “hands-on” program that provides you with techniques you can use immediately to solve the real-world problems that daily confront the law enforcement community. The skills learned in the course will save you countless hours of time for they assist you in focusing your investigations on the most likely type of person who committed the crime. You will discover why and how an offender targets his victims, and learn how to predict his motivation, his pre-offense behavior, his post-offense behavior, and his behavior during the murder itself.

While the course focuses primarily on the crime of homicide, in-class projects also deal with the crime of rape. Other relevant issues are examined as well. For example, you will learn how to identify the personality and behavioral characteristics of the victim and the offender in child abductions, how to identify the physical, behavioral, and personality characteristics of offenders who attack and kill elderly women, and how to analyze information contained in police reports to actually develop a profile that describes the type of offender who most likely committed a crime.

Presented in a comfortable, non-threatening environment that permits both individualized and group instruction, the course takes a “learn by doing” approach that gives students many opportunities to actually perform the tasks associated with the criminal profiling process.

You Should Attend If:

- You have received some prior training in recognizing organized vs. disorganized crime scene patterns
- You are a sex crimes investigator
- You are a homicide investigator
- You are a crimes against children investigator
- You are a patrol officer who may be in a position to recognize the characteristics of serial crimes
- You are an analyst who may assist or provide support to violent crime investigators
- You are now—or may later be—responsible for investigating, analyzing, or supervising the investigation or analysis of violent crimes

Regardless of your previous experience with analytical methods, this course is for you. You can always do your job better when you apply fresh ideas and techniques. We've made sure our seminars give you exactly what you need to put you at your peak!

Here's What You Will Learn

This course will provide you with an arsenal of skills to accomplish five separate tasks. First, you will review organized vs. disorganized crime scene patterns. Second, you will learn how to identify the characteristics and behavioral patterns of offenders who molest children. Third, you will be shown how to identify the physical and personality characteristics of offenders who abduct and kill children. Fourth, you will be taught how to determine the inner nature of offenders who kill elderly women, and how to recognize the victim traits and circumstances under which this type of crime is committed. Finally, you will be provided the opportunity to work an actual rape or homicide case and to prepare a profile of the suspect. You will then compare your results with others who have profiled the same offender.

Operational Issues

- Take a SECOND Look! Reviewing the All Important Crime Scene Characteristics of Organized vs. Disorganized Homicides
- Comparing the Differences between the Physical, Sexual, and Emotional Abuse of Children
- How to Recognize the Differences between Preferential vs. Situational Child Molesters, their Characteristics and their Patterns of Behavior
- Identifying the Stages Offenders Often Go Through in the Sexual Victimization of Children
- It Shouldn't Hurt to be a Kid. How to Recognize the Behavioral and Emotional Consequences to Sexually Abused Children
- How to Identify Motivational Considerations Behind the Various Forms of Child Abductions
- It's NOT Always That Obvious! How to Recognize the Nature of a Sexual Homicide
- How to Determine the Personality and Behavioral Characteristics of the Victim and the Offender in Child Abductions
- How to Identify the Physical, the Behavioral, and the Personality Characteristics of Offenders Who Attack Elderly Females
- How to Identify the Characteristics and the Circumstances of Elderly Females that Make Them Vulnerable to Attack
- And Much, Much, More!

The Profiling Process

All participants will have the opportunity to develop and practice their profiling skills by creating an in-class profile of a rapist, single homicide, or multiple homicide suspect identified from real police cases. With feedback from the instructor, students will then compare THEIR profiles with the ACTUAL profiles of the offenders.

About Our Advanced Criminal Investigative Analysis Programs

Law enforcement officials send their sworn officers and civilian personnel to our Advanced Criminal Investigative Analysis courses because of our proven ability to provide them with high-quality, performance-oriented training. Class exercises are based on real-world crime problems investigators are expected to solve each day. As such, students return to their agencies with not only the knowledge of what they should do, but, more importantly, how they should do it. Skills are developed by instructors who are intimately familiar with criminal investigative analysis techniques, and by the students' use of our comprehensive, easy-to-understand course materials. These elements contribute to the continued popularity of our Advanced Criminal Investigative Analysis training programs. Our success, however, comes from our achievement of one important goal: We turn Theory Into Practice.™

What Others Say About Our Training

"I gained a better insight into offender make-up and a better understanding of the differences between an investigation and profiling."

Randy Lawton
Newport Beach Police Department

"Highly worthwhile class. A great extension to the beginning class. The best concept was gaining insight into different options regarding one case—things that one group picked up on and that the others expanded upon. Great course!"

Michelle Jacksa-Smith
San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department

"Dr. Kelsoe is a great instructor and wealth of information. She is extremely informative and thoroughly thought provoking. Classes such as this make it exciting to go back to your agency and utilize the newly learned skills."

John F. Wagner, Jr.
Warner Robins Police Department

"The mixture of lecture, video, and personal experiences of the instructor made for a fascinating week. This is definitely a case of the more you learn, the more you realize you don't know!"

Patti Richie
Bainbridge Island Police Department

"Great, great, course! My interest is piqued. I want to learn more and perhaps apply ideas or concepts to other types of crimes."

Karl Sprague
Portland Police Bureau

"Excellent program. The course is taught in such a way that concepts can be understood by the least to the most experienced investigator or analyst."

Byron Holmes
DeKalb County Police Department

About The Alpha Group

The Alpha Group is comprised of professional speakers, trainers, and researchers who provide their expertise and practical experience to criminal justice, public safety, and victim service organizations. The organization is widely recognized for its ability to provide training in criminal investigative analysis; crime and intelligence analysis; statement analysis, interview and interrogation techniques; homeland security and terrorism analysis; criminal justice research methods; and other such unique areas of law enforcement. We also recognize that those who serve the public often have unique needs themselves. We, therefore, present a variety of management, supervisory, and interpersonal communications seminars. All of our skill-building programs address the personal needs of those—at all levels—who are employed in the public safety and victim service professions.

About Your Trainer

Phoebe L. Kelsoe, Ph.D., prior to her full-time teaching and consulting, was the manager of the Career Criminal Apprehension Program for the Riverside County, California, Sheriff's Department and the supervisor of the Sheriff's MOU with the FBI's Violent Criminal Apprehension Program (VICAP).

With both a Master's and Doctoral Degree in psychology from Claremont Graduate School in Claremont, California, Dr.

Kelsoe is recognized internationally for her expertise in psychologically profiling rape and homicide offenders. She currently provides consultant services to law enforcement agencies requesting her assistance in the investigation of serial rape, homicide, and unusual death cases and in the development of threat assessments of sexual predators. Among her career highlights were her profiling of William Suff, a serial killer who was convicted of abducting and murdering 13 prostitutes in Riverside, California; her assistance in the investigation of an offender arrested for the abduction and murder of a nine-year-old girl in San Bernardino, California; and her participation in the investigation of a major rape case by the Casper, Wyoming, District Attorney's Office. In that case, Dr. Kelsoe's profile was used to develop questions for the prosecution's cross-examination of a known suspect with the result that he was sentenced to two consecutive life terms in prison.

In recognition of her work, Dr. Kelsoe has been a featured contributor to the films Crimes Against Children and Teens on the Internet and Sexual Predators in Public Places produced by the Digital 2000 Safety Video Production Company of Houston, Texas.
